FELLOW TRADESMEN OF VICTORIA:

According to our magistrate's decision on the assault case of myself and K. Lang, one man can unjustly accuse another of trying to swindle others, and when he is told he is mistaken and does not understand the case, persists in his accusation, and even goes so far as to call you an underhanded English a—n of a b—h, and when he is told, in good reason, if he talks that way he lies and says anything but the truth, he is entitled or has the right to strike you and tell you he will break your G—d d—n neck if you summons him. Now, gentlemen, if an alien who considers this a desirable place to come to make a living can act as above with impunity, and to one who has always considered it his duty to assist the unfortunate and helpless little ones ever since he has been here, I say the sooner it is altered the better. What do you say?

Faithfully yours,
THOS. TUGWELL.

A FAMOUS FRAUD

The Great Fraud on Insurance Companies Finally Explained.

A FRIGHTFUL TALE OF DEPRAVITY

The Defrauded Companies Fight a Claim for Fifteen Years.

Drawing the Meshes of the Law Around the Murderers of Marshall—A Sanguinary Westminster Alderman Wants to Execute His Colleagues—Smoking a Cartridge.

New York, May 9.—John W. Hillmon, the chief conspirator in the Hillmon insurance swindle, in Kansas, has been found. The attorney for the Mutual Life Insurance, which, with the New York Life and Connecticut Mutual Life companies, carried the $40,000 insurance which Hillmon had on his life when he disappeared in 1878, and which his relatives have been trying to collect ever since, in an interview yesterday said: "We have at last found Hillmon alive and well and know exactly where we can lay hands on him. After a search extending over 15 years he has been finally traced to the Pacific coast and has made a clean breast of the affair.

So famous has the Hillmon case become that it was used by S. H. Snyder, the superintendent of insurance in Kansas, to justify his order that insurance litigation must hereafter be conducted only in the local courts and not elsewhere. In the past the companies have, it was charged, generally transferred their suits to the federal courts, involving long contests and usually wearing the claimants out. Mr. Snyder pointed to the Hillmon case as an instance where the widow had been "unjustly kept out of her money by long and harrowing court contests in the federal tribunals."

The story of the case involves the murder of an innocent man to provide the corpse, wholesale perjury, and a host of other crimes. Hillmon was 34 years old when he disappeared from Medicine Lodge, Kansas, in 1878. He had always been a poor man, and when it was found he had left life insurance policies aggregating $40,000 the suspicions of the companies were aroused and they contested the claims of Hillmon's alleged widow to the money. It was found that Levi Baldwin of Tongonoxie, Kan., a cousin of Hillmon's wife, had taken out policies. Baldwin was a bankrupt, and the case was rendered more suspicious by the fact that he could not possibly have paid the yearly premiums on the policies if Hillmon had lived.

The corpse which was said to be Hillmon's was identified by many supposed reputable witnesses, but when it was afterward exhumed, on the companies' order, Hillmon's neighbors declared it was not his, and his wife in giving a description of her husband failed to describe the corpse correctly. The company refused the claim on these grounds. The case was tried three times. The first and second time the jury disagreed, and the third time a verdict was returned in favor of the plaintiff. An appeal was taken, when the body alleged to have been that of Hillmon was exhumed at Medicine Lodge. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Brown, his partner, as it was alleged he had killed a man so as to provide a corpse for the insurance companies. Brown ran away to Texas and another warrant was issued for the apprehension of Baldwin, Mrs. Hillmon's cousin, who had obtained the policies. He also ran away and did not return till the case had been tried the third time and decided in Mrs. Hillmon's favor.

New evidence was discovered that decided the companies to argue for a new trial. Dr. Phillips declared under oath that in the fall of 1876, when living in Tongnoxie, Levi Baldwin said to him in his office: "Doc, would it not be a good scheme to get your life insured for all you can and then get some one to represent you as dead and then skip out for Africa or some other place?"

"It might be done, and I presume such things have happened," replied Dr. Phillips.

"Certainly, it can be done like a top," remarked Baldwin.

It was shortly after this conversation that Baldwin piled up the insurance on Hillmon's life. On March 17th, 1879, a man was shot and killed in a desolate lumber camp on Crooked Creek by John H. Brown, who said the shooting was accidental. He notified a farmer near by, who went with him to view the body. The dead man's head lay near the fire and had been burned, partially destroying the features. Brown said the man was Hillmon and the body was buried. Brown afterward confessed he had entered into a conspiracy in December, 1878, with Hillmon and Levi Baldwin to defraud the life insurance companies insuring Hillmon's life. Baldwin was to furnish the money and Hillmon and Brown were to manage the disappearance of the latter

They started for Wichita, Kan, and on the way picked up a stray man named Joe Berkeley. This man, Brown alleged, was shot by Hillmon, who dressed the corpse in his own clothing and put his diary in his pocket. Hillmon put on Berkeley's clothing, and saying that there "was a corpse ready made to impersonate him," he left the camp. He told Brown he would assume the name of Marshall and "lay low" until they got the money on the policies. After Brown had made this confession it was discovered that he had lied. The dead man was not Joe Berkeley, but Fred Adolph Waiters, a young German cigarmaker, of Fort Madison, Ia., who had gone to Lawrence in 1878. This brought the matter to a plain case of murder, in which J. H. Brown and Hillmon were the principals and Levi Baldwin and Mrs. Hillmon as accessories before the fact.

That was the condition of the case when the argument for a new trial was made by the insurance companies. In the meantime Mrs. Hillmon had travelled much, and the companies concluded that by following her they could find her husband. The clue failed, as she married again. However, the detectives employed by the insurance people kept steadily at work in the case and finally succeeded in running down the principal in the swindle. It is understood that he has consented readily enough to make a clean breast of the affair in order to clear himself of the charge of killing Waiters. This crime, according to the detectives, he lays at Brown's door. The latter has been kept under surveillance, and it is probable that all the conspirators will be brought up on criminal charges if the insurance companies make good their claims regarding the man who has been identified as Hillmon.

Harris' Religion.

New York, May 9.—Rev. Father Renssaeler, of St. Francis Xavier's college, visited Carlyle W. Harris frequently in the Tombs, but he was not present at the execution. Father van Renssaeler said yesterday: "Carlyle Harris became a Roman Catholic before he died. I called on him at the Tombs at his own request, ten days ago. I received a letter from him asking me to call on him if his appeal was adversely settled. In answer to this request I went to see him last Friday at Sing Sing. He expressed a desire to become a Roman Catholic, and to die in the faith. I accordingly baptized him conditionally, as he had been previously baptized in the Episcopal faith. I also heard his confession and granted him absolution. I have never at any time believed Harris guilty, and I do not now."

Senor Marti's Illness.

Key West, Fla., May 8.—Owing to the illness of Senor Jose Marti, the manifesto of the Cuban revolutionary party will not be issued until to-morrow. Senor Marti has been confined to his house since Saturday night, but is not seriously ill. Bands of Cubans have been in the habit of drilling once or twice a week, and always on Sunday, since the opening of the year. Formerly they drilled near the first martello tower on the south beach, but yesterday they retired entirely out of sight of the curious, as they thought, in the Salt Ponds property, a mile or more beyond the limits of the town. A council of presidents composed of the presidents of the revolutionary clubs in this city, is in secret session to-night with Senor Marti.

IN TOKEN OF ESTEEM.

Departure of Rev. Baer Sincerely Regretted—Captain Salmond's Escape.

Nanaimo, May 9.—The following resolution was moved at the last meeting of the board of the Wallace and Haliburton street Methodist churches:

"Whereas at the approaching conference the Rev. W. W. Baer will terminate his connection as pastor of this church, be it resolved that this quarterly official board hereby place on record its appreciation of the eminent services rendered by him as our pastor during the three years now rapidly drawing to a close, and earnestly pray that the Divine blessing may attend him in his field of labor."

Rev. A. E. Green, grand chief templar of British Columbia, was presented with a handsome solid silver inkstand by Wellington lodge on Saturday night. The presentation was accompanied by an address setting forth the feeling of esteem borne by the members of the lodge for the grand chief.

While Captain Salmond was enjoying a pipe of tobacco at Texada Island on Sunday, an explosion suddenly occurred in the bowl of the pipe and shattered it to pieces. On investigation it was discovered that the captain had by some mistake filled a cartridge in with the tobacco. The bullet passed his nose and went through the brim of his hat. The smoker realized that he had had a narrow escape.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

Points Strongly and Clearly to Stroebel as Marshall's Murderer.

New Westminster, May 9.—All yesterday and to-day A. Stroebel and G. R. Eyerly were being tried in the district court for the murder of John Marshall, of Huntingdon, on April 19. There are ten witnesses and five have been examined. The evidence is circumstantial, but clear and strong. The chief evidence to-day so far was that of D. Lucas, police officer of Sumas city, who, after the inquest, said to Stroebel: "The doctor has found two 44 calibre bullets in Marshall's skull." Stroebel replied, "That let's me out; my revolver is only 38 calibre." Lucas then told him that the bullets were not 44 but 38, and Stroebel said he had no cartridges. The policeman next day found two 38 calibre empty cartridges lying on the ground directly below Stroebel's window. In the mattress also were discovered two loaded, and of the same size. The revolver showed that two chambers had been discharged. Eyerly will not give evidence till the assizes.

The short tram line opened to Vancouver this morning. A special car with flags flying, left the city with 30 gentlemen aboard for Vancouver and the power house, where a champagne lunch was served.

Fears for the Iroquois.

San Francisco, May 9.—The strong northwest gale that swept along the coast yesterday has caused government officials to feel anxious about the safety of the steamer Bear, which left last week for Port Townsend, having in tow the old warship Iroquois. The engines and boilers were taken out of her at Mare Island navy yard and the dismantled hulk was towed down to Sausileto, where she lay until the Bear was ready to leave on her Alaska trip. The government officials thought the Bear could tow the Iroquois up to her destination as well as a tug. She got away with her tow all right, and the last heard of her she was 70 miles southwest of Point Arena, and seemed to be in no trouble. The Bear, however, was never intended for a tug, and she can steam only eight knots an hour at best. She would be helpless in a gale with a big hulk like the Iroquois behind her. Early this morning Capt. Hooker, of the revenue cutter Rush received orders to proceed to sea at once to render any assistance the Bear might need. Old cautains say the Bear would have to cut the Iroquois adrift if she got into a storm, and think Capt. Healy kept far off the land so that in case the Iroquois did get away from him some coasting steamer would have a chance to pick her up before she drifted ashore.

Tupper and the Imperial Federation League.

The Members Reach an Amicable Understanding in the Matter of Imperial Defence—Americans Presented at Court—The Georgian Bay Canal Scheme.

Melbourne, May 9.—The Bank of Victoria, Ltd., has suspended. According to the balance sheet of last December deposits amounted to over seven million pounds. J. N. Law is general manager, and A. E. Wall is accountant. The failure is of great importance. The bank has several branches; the London branch was at 28 Clements Lane, E.C. The subscribed capital of the Bank of Victoria is £1,200,000. The liabilities are about double.

Americans at Court.

London, May 9.—Queen Victoria held a drawing room reception at Buckingham Palace this afternoon. Among the ladies received by Her Majesty were Mrs. Edward J. Phelps, wife of Hon. E. J. Phelps, formerly American Minister to England, and at present of the counsel for the United States; Mrs. General George B. Williams; Mrs. Howell, of New York; Mrs. J. B. Morgan, Mrs. Ursula Morgan, Miss Romola Dahlgren, Mrs. Day and Miss Alice Day, all American ladies. They were presented by Mrs. Henry White, wife of the charge d'affaires of the American legation.

Tupper's Long Tongue.

London, May 9.—The usual meeting of the council of the Imperial Federation League held on Saturday to consider Sir Charles Tupper's statements respecting the desire of some prominent members to secure contributions from the colonies for the Imperial army, have led to an interesting and lively discussion. Lord Reay and Sir John Colomb, in moving their resolutions, disclaimed any such desire. Sir Charles Tupper fully accepted the disclaimer, but produced a mass of evidence to support his inference as to his critics' views. Messrs. Faithful Begg and other members expressed the hope that a split would be avoided and moved the previous question. Chairman Edward Stanhope suggested a resolution according satisfaction at Sir Charles Tupper's acceptance of the explanations offered by Lord Reay and Sir John Colomb. Sir Charles accepted this which was adopted with unanimity. The meeting was brought to a friendly close, having served the purpose of bringing to an issue this question which had been so long simmering. Sir Charles Tupper claims a distinct victory for the principle which he has always advocated, that in relation to joint action for Imperial defence the starting point is colonial outlay, and that action for self defence is just as much Imperial as the expenditure of the funds voted for the army and navy.

Villard's Intentions

New York, May 9.—It is said that Henry Villard is figuring on a collateral trust loan of $15,000,000 for releasing the floating debt of the Northern Pacific, reserving part of the issue for other expenditures that may be considered necessary during the next two years. This is substantially the same as the plan the stockholders' committee ignored because its success was contingent upon the resignation of the majority of the board. There is said to be available for collateral to secure the loan in case it is effected, nearly $30,000,000 of par value stocks and bonds, worth from 80 to 85 in the market. Villard is trying to get subscriptions to some such plan.

Georgian Bay Canal.

New York, May 9.—E. A. McDonald, of Toronto, Canada, who has been in New York for one week, has, it is said, organized a syndicate to construct an aqueduct from Georgian Bay to Toronto, 60 miles, to supply Toronto with domestic water power. This also involves the construction of the ship canal projected over 40 years ago by the late Mr. Capreal and others to shorten the route 400 miles between Chicago and New York, and 900 miles between the west and Liverpool, as compared with Erie canal and New York routes. Estimated expenditure, $50,000,000.

Behring Sea Tribunal.

Paris, May 9.—F. R. Coudert of the counsel for the United States continued his argument to-day before the Behring Sea tribunal of arbitration. Mr. Coudert related the history of pelagic sealing and showed that since the adoption of the modus vivendi pelagic sealers had increased their demands. He quoted statements from the counter case of Great Britain, which he argued, virtually confirmed his contention that pelagic sealing was gradually destroying the seal species, and he read and commented on the London furriers, showing that while the seal catch at Pribyloff Islands was chiefly of males, the seals captured by the pelagic hunters were chiefly females.

TORY ROWDYISM.

Humiliating Exhibition of Conservative Spite in the Imperial House.

London, May 8.—In the House of Commons to-day, Charles J. Darling, Conservative for Deptford, proposed to amend clause one of the Home Rule bill by re-affirming the supremacy of Parliament in local as well as imperial matters.

Mr. Gladstone opposed the motion for the reason that the supremacy of Parliament had been asserted sufficiently in the preamble.

Colonel Saunderson, Ulster Loyalist, argued that the amendment was necessary to "curb the predatory propensities of the squalid Irish Parliament, with a hungry executive gloating in whiskey."

Mr. Balfour, leader of the Unionists, said that the proposed amendment was a preface to future provisions by which the Imperial Parliament would be enabled to control local and personal affairs in Ireland.

Mr. Chamberlain, leader of the Liberal Unionists, declared it to be a sinister omen that the Government was unwilling to accept the amendment. If it were deemed desirable to enforce the supremacy of the Imperial Parliament, certainly that supremacy ought to be first asserted. He, himself wished to assert this supremacy.

Amid the Conservative cheers which greeted this statement the electric lights in the lobbies and galleries went out, and the proceedings were suspended. To shorten the debate the Irish members refrained from speaking on Mr. Darling's amendment, although the Conservative speakers taunted them with exceptional malignance for the purpose of involving them in a discussion.

After six hours had been consumed, Mr. Morley, chief secretary for Ireland, moved the cloture. His motion evoked Opposition yells and cries of "shameful!" "scandalous!" to which the Irish members replied, "remember what you did in 1887!"

The cloture was carried by a vote of 243 to 195. The amendment was lost by a vote of 285 to 233.

Lord Randolph Churchill moved that the chairman of the committee report progress. It was hopeless, he said, to get fair play as the business in committee was being conducted.

Mr. Gladstone resisted the motion, remarking that he was not the author of the cloture rule.

Mr. Chamberlain said he could appreciate the Prime Minister's coolness. When the worm was trampled, it was not the trampler who had reason to become excited, nevertheless the worm's feelings might be hurt. Mr. Chamberlain closed with a flag at the Irish, whom he charged with an indiscriminate support of the Government.

"How much would it take to square you?" shouted William Pollard Byles, a Yorkshire Liberal. Conservative shouts for an apology followed, above which could be heard indistinctly the protest of the Irish that Mr. Chamberlain was the one who ought to apologize.

Finally Mr. Gladstone interposed, calmed the members and drew from the chairman a statement that he had misunderstood the facts and wished to withdraw his request for an apology from Mr. Byles.

The motion to report progress was then rejected on a vote of 307 to 265.

Mr. Balfour moved that the chairman leave the chair.

The motion was resisted by Mr. Gladstone and lost by a vote of 304 to 257.

When the monotony of useless motions and divisions was resumed, Chairman Mellor's voice was noticeably hoarse, in consequence of his strenuous but ineffectual efforts to make himself heard during the worst of the confusion caused by the Byles incident. The sitting dragged uneventfully to the adjournment at midnight. The last two hours had been completely wasted in futile squabbling and voting.

GENERAL DISPATCHES.

News in Brief From Various Parts of the World.

St. Louis, Mo., May 9.—The largest assemblage of broom-makers that has ever come together met in Monitor Hall in this city at 10 o'clock this morning for the purpose of bringing into existence an international union of the trade. Every local union was represented, and there were many delegates from points that have not yet been reached by local organizations. In calling the convention to order C. J. Anderson, of Denver, referred to the unorganized condition of the trade, and said that there was never a trade more in need of organization than were the broom-makers at the present time. In the eastern and central states they were compelled to compete with convict labor to a greater extent than ever before, while on the Pacific coast the Chinese had practically forced the industry to the wall. Under these conditions the organization of an international union became a necessity. A letter was read from the American Federation of Labor strongly endorsing the movement, and pledging itself to foster and encourage it. The committees on credentials and order of business were then appointed, and the convention adjourned for lunch.

Toledo, O., May 9.—Several thousand men have gathered in this city during the past few days for the purpose of attending the annual convention of railway conductors, which was called to order this morning. Elaborate preparations have been made for the reception and entertainment of the visitors by a committee of citizens headed by Mayor Emerick. The convention will remain in session for ten days, and many questions of importance to the order will be considered.

Louisville, Ky., May 9.—Delegates are continuing to arrive in this city in anticipation of the annual meeting of the National League of Republican Clubs, and it is now an assured fact that the attendance will be almost if not quite as large as the meeting held last year, notwithstanding the defeat of last November. The formal proceedings opened this morning with a joint session of the Republican National committee and the executive committee of the league for the purpose of formulating a harmonious plan of operation to be followed by the clubs and the party organizations during the coming year. The New York and Iowa delegates will arrive to-night, the latter coming direct from Chicago, where they participated in the opening of the World's Fair. The convention proper will be called to order at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and the session will continue throughout the day, and will be followed by a grand mass meeting at Phoenix Hall park in the evening. The ratio of representation is four ex-officio delegates and six delegates at large from each state and territory, four from each congressional district, and one from each Republican college club, thus bringing the total number of delegates up to about two thousand.

Cincinnati, O., May 9.—Representative hotel men from all over the country have taken this city by storm to-day. It is the fourteenth annual convention of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association of the United States. The business session opened this morning in the convention hall of the Grand Hotel. A lengthy report showing the order to be in a decidedly flourishing condition, both as regards membership and finances, was presented by Secretary-Treasurer Walter Burnes. At 1 o'clock the convention adjourned for luncheon. The ladies of the party will be banqueted at half-past seven this evening, and at 9 o'clock the members of the organization will have their annual banquet at the Burnett House. Among those who respond to toasts are Mayor John B. Mosby, Judge Samuel F. Hunt, Editor F. W. Rice, of the National Hotel Reporter, Chicago; hosts Waugh, of Boston, James H. Breslin, of New York and Chicago, Howard Saxby and several others.

Chicago, May 9.—A national celebration of the Catholic Knights of America is a special feature of to-day at the World's Fair grounds. The members of the order, in many cases accompanied by their families, began to arrive at an early hour. As the morning wore on their numbers increased, most of the knights being in full regalia. This afternoon there will be appropriate exercises under the auspices of the order.

Chicago, May 8.—Fully 20,000 people saw the great illumination of the Fair buildings to-night in honor of the first opening of the exposition. It was a magnificent spectacle.

City of Mexico, May 8.—General Manuel Gonzales, ex-president of the Republic and Governor of the State of Guanajuato, died this afternoon. He was born near Matamoras, in Tamulipas, in 1820. He was endowed with great personal courage, which was largely instrumental in securing him a considerable following. He was president from 1880 to 1884. His wife and two sons survive him. He leaves an estate valued at $7,000,000.

Washington, D. C., May 8.—A model of the protected cruiser Olympia, built by the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, was placed on exhibition at the Navy Department to-day. The model will be shipped to Chicago in a few days and become part of the naval exhibit.

Chicago, May 8.—Henry Davis Hoskel, World's Fair Commissioner from the Argentine Republic, who is suffering from pneumonia, is dying in one of the private apartments of St. Luke's Hospital. On Monday Commissioner Hoskel attended the opening exercises of the Fair, where he contracted a cold, which culminated in pneumonia.

Chicago, May 8.—The city council tonight passed a resolution unanimously declaring for an open Sunday at the World's Fair ground, and as representatives of $5,000,000 of stock in the World's Columbian Exposition, criticised the financial management which closes the gates one day out of the seven.

Berlin, May 6.—Count Hoensbroche, formerly a member of the Society of Jesus, has been excommunicated by the church in consequence of disclosures recently made by him, and which are held to be breaches of the confessional.

London, May 8.—The Moscow correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says: It is rumored that the Grand Duke George, second son of the Czar, has become enamored of a pretty Circassian in Caucasia, where he is staying for his health. He has determined to marry her. His parents are annoyed, but they are expected to give their consent, as the grand duke is not expected to recover.

Berlin, May 8.—At the colonial office it is stated that the powers of the Samoan treaty have accepted the resignations of Chief Justice Cederkrvantz and Baron von Pilsach, president of the municipal council. Baron von Pilsach will sail for home on June 1. The climate does not agree with his wife's health.

Berlin, May 8.—Prince Adolphus of Schaumburg-Lippe died to-day in Buckenburg, the capital of Schaumburg-Lippe. The prince was born in 1817, and succeeded to the throne in 1860. He married Hermine, princess of Waldeck and Pyrment, in 1844. By her he had five children. His eldest son, Prince George, is 47 years old.

Berlin, May 8.—Privy Councillor von Bismarck, eldest brother of the ex-chancellor, is dead.

Vienna, May 8.—Herr Rozewadoviski, a member of the Austrian reichstag, and who owns land in Russian Poland, where he occasionally spends some time, has been expelled from Poland, with his family, by the Russian authorities.

Rome, May 8.—The Polish Pilgrims have arrived in this city. The pilgrimages will be suspended during June, July and August on account of the influenza. More than half of the guards at the Vatican are now ill of the epidemic, and the medical staff has been increased so that it may be equal to caring for the sufferers. More than 5,000 cases of influenza have been reported in the city. Russia has communicated to the Pope her intention to send to Rome a permanent minister to the Vatican.

Moscow, May 8.—Destitution is decimating the population of the rural districts in Central and Southern Russia. Fevers have followed everywhere in the path of the famine, and the utmost suffering prevails in the provinces of Saratoff, Samagand and Vorenosh. The land owners are heavy losers from the prevalent distress. Many of them have sold or killed all their live stock to carry them through the crisis, and are now on the verge of bankruptcy.

London, May 8.—Michael Davitt, anti-Parnellite member for North East Cork, has applied for the Chiltern hundreds. This means the resignation of his seat in parliament. Although the bankruptcy act allows a man six months' grace after he has been declared a bankrupt, Mr. Davitt prefers resigning at once. He said his conscience would not allow him to remain in parliament on suffrance. Mr. Davitt's financial troubles were caused by the costs attendant upon the North Meath election contest.

A Physiological Phenomenon.

Orange, N. J., May 8.—The strange case of Miss Mary McCann, who has now lain in a comatose condition at the Memorial Hospital for 25 days, continues to attract much attention. On April 13th she was thrown from a South Orange horse car, and since then has not spoken nor had a moment of consciousness. The last few days, signs of approaching consciousness have appeared, however; she now lies upon her cot with her eyes open moaning and moving her hands in an aimless, nervous manner. Her trouble is concussion of the brain. Since her accident, Miss McCann has been examined by no less than 75 physicians, and has undergone the most critical and detailed examinations.

GERMAN RADICALS.

The Freisinninge Party Division Will Probably be Permanent.

Berlin, May 8.—The division of the Radical Freisinninge party has assumed a permanent form. The stronger contingent under Eugene Richter will be known henceforth as the Radical people's party (Freisinninge Volkspartel), and will co-operate with the South German Democrats under Frederick Payer, who made one of the bitterest speeches against the government on the last day of the reichstag, and is opposed to all concessions to militarism. Herr Richter justifies this course in a manifesto, which says: "It was impossible to fight the reactionaries on the right, the Socialists on the left, and, at the same time, the dissenters within our own ranks. The division of the party was therefore unavoidable." The weaker contingent of the party, which seceded with Major Hugo Hinze, has assumed the name of the Radical Union Freisinninge Voreiging. The Radical Unionists have been the first to score a success with the electors. At a Radical meeting of the Schwentz-Wittenberg constituency, Dr. Heinrich Dohren, one of the 22 who seceded from the Radical caucus on Saturday, and founded the Radical Union, was endorsed as Radical candidate in the general election, although he had explicitly avowed his purpose to vite, if returned to the reichstag, for the security of the empire. A high official in the imperial chancellor's office said to-day that the emperor and Caprivi, convinced of the futility of attempting to conciliate the clericals, will accept the persistent opposition of the Centre as a gauge of battle. As regards both the schools and the return of the Jesuits, he said the government would act in complete independence of clerical influence, not even yielding in face of another kulturkampf.

The division of the funds and other matters connected with the old Radical organization have been arranged amicably between the new groups. The seceders have taken some of the strongest members of the old party. Among them are: Dr. Heinrich, Rickert, Ludwig, Bamberger, Mayor Hugo Hinze, Dr. Albert Hienal, Dr. Theodore Burth, editor of the nation, Dr. Dohren, Dr. Siemens, director of the Deutcher bank, and Prof. Seelig, of Kiel University, and Railway Director Schrader. Dr. Freiheer Von Schenick has also joined the seceders from the old Radical party.

London, May 8.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News, in giving the history of the division of the Radical party, says: The split will have great influence in Germany's domestic policy since from its foundation the party suffered from want of unity among its leaders. Common hatred of Bismarck, however, kept a semblance of harmony. The ties were loosened with the accession of von Caprivi. A popular wit has dubbed the Richter section opposing Caprivi, Wasserstiefler and the Richter section, which was compliant toward Caprivi, Waldenstrumpler. The army bill served to turn local jealousies into an open rupture, which, on top of the dissolution, was the greatest possible blunder. It is true the hostile section appointed a joint committee to secure a common electoral platform, but it is feared that circumstances will prove stronger than the best intentions, and the split will spread to the electorate.

as a general tonic to cleanse the blood and sharpen the appetite. "It is the best antimalaria remedy," he says, "that I know of." Certainly the cordial endorsement of so prominent a man should convince you that Hood's Sarsaparilla is worthy your confidence. Mr. Charles F. Drexel, a well known former resident of Baltimore, Md., now Deputy City Treasurer of Omaha, Neb., writes that Hood's Sarsaparilla has effected a Phenomenal Cure in the case of his son, who when two years old became afflicted with Malignant Eczema. It first developed in his right eye, and the discharge from the same caused the whole face on that side to break out in a nasty, running sore. The poor little fellow was indeed pitiable to look at. Physicians gave him only temporary relief. He almost lost the sight of one eye, and the best oculists in Baltimore failed to benefit him. Finally Mrs. Drexel insisted upon trying Hood's Sarsaparilla and before he had taken half a bottle he looked like another child. The humor entirely disappeared, and His Eyesight was fully Restored. In fact, says Mr. Drexel, "he is the healthiest of our three children, and we feel that too much praise cannot be given Hood's Sarsaparilla."

PECULIAR TO ITSELF

Try Hood's Pills for Biliousness this spring.

The Al-Ki Safe.

Port Townsend, Wash., May 8.—The steamer Chilcot arrived from Juneau tonight en route to Astoria. She reported that the steamer Al-Ki had struck a reef above Mary's Island on her trip north and sustained slight damage. The Al-Ki was leaking slightly when the Chilcot left, but the examination had not progressed far enough to warrant putting her on the beach for repairs. A small portion of her cargo was damaged. Southbound passengers were sent to here on the Chilcot. The Al-Ki is 12 days late. She will probably await the arrival of the City of Topeka before coming back.

THE ORNAMENTATION OF SPRING WEAR

Lace Plays an Important Part in the Decoration of the Season's Costumes—Various Descriptions of Lace and Their Varied Uses.

IN the ornamentation of the garments that have been sketched for to-day's article, lace plays an important part. Its use is general, yet few women know how to discriminate intelligently between the many kinds and grades. Many women think that no lace that is not yellow is valuable, in other words, that no "real" lace is made now and that if you have no grandmother to give you some, there is no chance of your getting any unless you steal it, or, perhaps, get a lucky chance to buy some. As a compromise you could get a good machine lace and wash it in coffee. This will deceive a great many people. Many believe that to refer to lace as "thread lace" is to mean that it is real, and other women consider that there is no real black lace. Of course, it is not necessary to know much about lace, because so few know anything, but if you want to hold your own, it is just as well to know how to chatter a little about the genuine thing, and to be able to deplore with grace and confidence the use of machine lace. The class of people who shudder at "popular music" used to be very impressive, but as soon as we all knew how to shudder in the right place the other folks ceased to be effective.

First, the mesh or network of real lace is likely to be irregular, while that of machine lace is absolutely symmetrical. Just this much is enough to get you through to a limited extent in your criticism of lace. A certain value is attached to lace which was made before machines for lace making were invented, because such age is an absolute guarantee of genuineness, but some lace is made now just as it was in the beginning. There are only three ways of making all the varieties; first, and probably oldest, with the needle, second, with bobbins or pins on a pillow, and third, with a machine. The last imitates all varieties produced by the other methods.

Now for a few terms. You should refer to the net or foundation of the lace as the "reseau" and to the pattern as the "fleur." This will be enough to make the average person you talk with treat you and your knowledge of lace with respect. You can fill in by phrases about the delicate reseau and the exquisite detail of the fleur. If more is needed, it will be as well to know that the standard meshes are the square or diamond shaped, which are used in Valenciennes lace, and the six-sided mesh used in point d'Alencon. Chantilly lace has an odd mesh of four-sided big holes with little triangular holes between. Another name for lace made on this reseau is Point de Paris. Just study that over a little, for it is somewhat mixing. There are other sorts of reseaus, but these will do. You don't want to go into the thing too far, because you will run the risk of understanding too much about it and being in the position of the musical person who really does shudder at popular music. It is a great deal more comfortable to be able to know when it is correct to shudder without really wanting to.

After the reseau is made, the fleur, or pattern, is worked on it. It is in the working of the pattern that the chief difference between pillow lace and needle lace lies. The latter is the choicer. It has a distinctness of outline in the fleur, while the pillow lace is smooth and soft in outline. By just remembering this you can, if you are sure the other woman does not know any more than you do, refer at random to a sample as bobbin, pillow or needle lace. In the last, the pattern is outlined by running a thread with the needle in and out of the meshes of the reseau. If the outline is to be very much in relief, it is either made with quite a coarse thread, or even corded with horsehair, as it is done in Point d'Alencon. When the outline of the fleur is all done then the rest of the pattern is made by filling in the outline.

The point d'Alencon is ranked the queen of all laces. It is the very choicest of needle laces. If you are well up in its characteristics, you will get through very well even on quite a detailed discussion of fine lace. D'Alencon has the greatest detail, and has to go through several stages before it is done. First, a design is prepared, then the design is traced through the holes of the reseau, and the outline thus made strengthened and emphasized by the introduction into it of horsehair. When this is done the reseau is complicated by twisting the threads of the meshes together here and there to make bigger holes, and thus a variety is given to the mesh. The outlines of the design on fleur are next filled in with a sort of button hole stitch, thus making a very rich, heavy effect that is almost like embroidery, and contrasts with the delicacy of the reseau. That is a good sentence to memorize just as it stands. Be sure you are really talking about d'Alencon, though, before you use it. Another thing about this especial lace is that it is made piece by piece, and then the separate pieces are sewn together by an invisible seam—if you really want the name of it—the "point de raccroc." The making of all the pieces into one by means of the point de raccroc is called the "assemblage." If you can get your grandmother to give you a piece of lace, and to tell you, so that you may make no mistake, that it really is point d'Alencon, you can easily study up these points in its making, and you are sure to get credit for knowing just as much about all the other laces. Besides, if you really get a clear idea of this queen of laces, it is as well to become used to calling it that—you can make a fair stagger at talking about most any needle lace, because the d'Alencon has all the possibilities of all the other needle laces combined. Different specimens of it will, of course, vary in beauty or value according to age, delicacy of the different parts, and intricacy or design. So, even if you strike someone who is proud of having a piece of d'Alencon you may perhaps crush them by remarking that were it not for the lack of grace in the fleur, the specimen would indeed be a fine one, or that it is a pity that greater delicacy in the reseau had not made the beauty of the assemblage more a matter of marvel. It is a great comfort to make a person feel miserable that way when they have started in feeling good, and when you are sure that they don't really know a thing more about the matter than you do.

If you will read all this again and then spend a little time coaching up on some specimens, you can talk very safely about any one piece of lace, but if you wish to be more practical you will be interested in the way the garniture is employed in the models sketched. A neglige cap made of pale blue surah, white lace and narrow blue ribbon is the first of these. The ribbon is drawn through the crown three times and looped behind as shown. The crown is full and the shape is regulated by the ribbon.

A pretty dress for a young matron follows. As designed it was of gray-blue sicilienne, the girdle of velvet a few shades darker and the whole garnished with old, yellowed lace. The skirt was trimmed around the top with strips of velvet put on lengthwise at regular intervals, and trimmed with narrow lace. The lace fichu was held by a velvet bow in front, and the ends behind fastened by tiny stick-pins.

The pointed evening bodice of the second picture had a full ruffle or Empire cape around the neck and the sleeves were full puffs trimmed with a wide ruffle of lace, or of the same material.

Further on the seated figure wears a neglige made of pink silk with fine white stripes.

CHANTILLY.

The skirt has a wide flounce at the top coming down almost half the length of the whole and edged with lace. The jacket is tight-fitting behind but the front is loose and the fullness is confined by a ribbon belt. It is trimmed with lace and has a yoke-like arrangement of alternate strips of silk and lace insertion, in front, finished with a gathered lace ruffle. The latter forms a jabot in front and then continues down the back where the ends meet in a point at about the center. A ribbon is passed under the turn-down collar and is tied with a bow in front. Tight cuffs of silk and lace insertion, trimmed with a lace ruffle, complete the sleeves.

The final example is a spring toilet with just a suggestion of the airiness of summer about it. It is cut princess, and has a skirt which betokens a sensible wearer, as it clears the ground. The material is tan-colored whipcord. There is a collarette of black velvet, short behind, but having tabs reaching to the bottom of the dress in front and edged with a gathered ruffle of black lace about five inches wide, a narrower lace finishing the high standing collar. The skirt is trimmed with two ruffles of tan cloth around the bottom and the whole costume is lined with silk. With the costume is worn a bonnet of tan straw, the inner brim covered with black velvet. It is trimmed with primroses, black lace and an aigrette.

SIN AND INGRATITUDE.

Hon. John Carling, who allowed himself to be dragged through the mud to save the London seat for his party, is enjoying his reward. The Toronto Telegram (Independent), speaking of his case says: "He has jeopardized his reputation as an honest man, not because he desired to do so, but because the orders from Ottawa were to that effect. He has suffered the abstraction of his portfolio while his back was turned, and has accepted the empty honor of a seat at the privy council board, a seat which he has never occupied since A. R. Angers supplanted him in the department of agriculture. And then the government, with characteristic bad judgment, offered Mr. Carling a very honorary commissionership. In the capital it was known a month ago that the member for London would be offered the position. No stronger proof of his secession from his old associates can be found than in the fact that as soon as Mr. Carling was officially tendered the appointement he declined to accept it." Mr. Carling might better have saved his reputation as an honest man and declined to be a party to that London steal.

NO RELIEF THERE.

The Colonist is of opinion that "at the present moment the advocates of both imperial federation and preferential trade must look to British Conservatives for encouragement and support." This conclusion is drawn from the statements made by Mr. Gladstone to the imperial federation league deputation and to Col. Howard Vincent, the apostle of preferential trade. In view of the fact that the leading men of the Conservative party have spoken as strongly as Mr. Gladstone against the proposal to place a tax on Great Britain's food supply, there seems little chance of encouragement for the preferential trade idea from their side of the house. The Conservatives may coquette with the federation idea, which shows no sign of taking practical shape, but they are not ready to commit political suicide by proposing even a small preferential duty on the foreign food supply. Canadians would do well to try and work out their own tariff problem without any reference to Britain's future action. We know that the British market is free to all, and we may as well conclude that it is likely to remain so.

There is at least one woollen manufacturer who perceives the wisdom of tariff reform. He writes as follows to the Ottawa Citizen: "There is no reason, however, why woollen goods should not be put down to a straight duty of 25 or 30 per cent., which would be plenty of protection. Tweeds, blankets and woollen goods are now sold to the consumer fully 30 to 40 per cent. cheaper than before the National Policy and wages are 25 to 30 per cent. higher. I think there should be a general revision of the tariff and the unnecessary duty struck off, and I think the information for this should be secured from the manufacturers interested. When 20 per cent. is sufficient there is no use of having 70 per cent. on the list." Notwithstanding what this man says, it is at least doubtful whether his fellow-manufacturers will agree to the reduction of the duty so much as one per cent.

Dalton McCarthy is receiving a good deal of censure because he combines an Anti-French and anti-Catholic crusade with his tariff reform movement, but he has also a good many followers who uphold him in this crusade. They include the Rev. C. O. Johnston, a prominent Methodist clergyman, who is quoted as saying that "when foreigners make their home in Canada they should all speak the same language." The idea of compelling all people who come to live in Canada to use the English language is so unjust, illiberal and unwise that one would hardly expect to find a clergyman of Mr. Johnston's denomination giving it expression. All people who come to this country must be left a free choice of language. That plan is not only most in accord with the principles of justice but it is certain to bring the foreigner most speedily to the use of English.

The clerks in the census department at Ottawa who "kicked" because they received only $33 per month were surely possessed of great hardihood. How can we pay favored contractors for work which they do not perform and still have money left to give away in princely wages to mere clerks? These men were surely not acquainted with the methods that prevail at Ottawa or they would not have thought of protesting against their small salaries.

LOCAL OPTION.

Question Before Supreme Court—Census Clerks Dismissed.

Ottawa, May 9.—The supreme court to-day had under consideration the validity of Mowat's local option law. The case is that of Huson vs. South Norwich. The township passed a by-law prohibiting the sale of liquor under the provisions of the law which the legislature passed in 1890. Huson is a ratepayer, and in the interest of the liquor men took action to quash the by-law. The case came up before Sir Thomas Galt, who gave judgment to quash. The court of appeals reversed this decision, and appeal was taken to the supreme court. The contention of the province is that the municipalities had power before confederation to deal with the liquor traffic, and that the power has never been taken from them. The appellants argue that the question being one of trade and commerce it is exclusively vested in the Dominion since the passing of the act of union.

Hon. John Haggart leaves to-morrow for the Crow's Nest Pass. He will remain over a short time in Winnipeg. Dr. Montague will likely accompany him.

Twenty clerks engaged on the census were dismissed to-day for protesting against the low salary given them, $33 per month.

FIRE UNDERWRITERS.

To the Editor:—In reply to a letter which appeared in last night's Times, signed "A Sufferer," I would suggest that your correspondent should have informed himself a little better as to the meeting which was held last month in New Westminster and the proceedings of that meeting before unjustly accusing the Victoria representatives of neglecting the interests of their patrons. The meeting was the first annual meeting of the Provincial Association of Fire Underwriters, and was composed of members from each of the local boards, and as the greater contains the less was perfectly justified in taking up any subject affecting a local board. For the information of your correspondent I may say that at a previous meeting held in Vancouver I, as one of the representatives from this city, asked the co-operation of the other boards in opposing the Victoria municipal tax, but at that time no united action could be secured, since then, however, the city of Vancouver has sought and received power from the legislature to impose a similar tax, which if enforced, will undoubtedly cause the rates of insurance to be very largely increased. It would be absurd to suppose that the insurance companies are paying the tax out of their own funds. Some of those entering the field recently and doing a careful business may do so until the increased rate on the amount of business done reaches the sum of $300 per year, but the older companies doing business here are certainly benefited by the tax. In the early days of the colony this tax was in favor with insurance agents as helping a monopoly of their business, but since the confederation the necessity does not exist, as only 36 companies are licensed to do business in Canada, and 34 are represented here, despite the tax. I am rather surprised that some of the followers of the single tax party have not taken up the consideration of this relic of the middle ages, a fitting contemporary to the window tax, the commercial travellers' tax and traders' license. However, time works many changes.

As to the freedom of Victoria from fire "Sufferer" is quite right; the "getatableness" of fires and the promptness of the department have prevented many a large blaze, but the time may come, as it did in St. John's, Nfld., when nearly $8,000,000 may be swept in a single day. Our water pressure is scarcely 60, while in New Westminster it is 170 to the square inch.

Halifax has been condemned for having only a pressure of 56 during a recent fire. For some years St. John's was looked upon as a decidedly paying city for insurance companies, but one day swept away the profits of years.

THE TOCORA LINGERS.

Captain Thorton Does Not Care to Get His Ship Seized.

The barkentine Tocora has not yet left Vancouver for Portland with her cargo of Chinese passengers and it is likely that she will not go until the case of the Danube is settled. The vessel is all ready to leave, having the required number of berths and the necessary arrangements for cooking. Capt. Thornton is said to be holding out for a guarantee that neither he nor his vessel shall be responsible in case trouble similar to that in the Danube's case is experienced, and that he is throwing every obstacle in the way of starting. It is understood that the railway companies will endeavor to hold him to his contract.

Marine men here are unanimous in the belief that the Danube cannot be held under the charge brought against her. Every year excursion boats come here crowded to the rails with passengers. Sometimes they have special licenses and often they have not, but in no case are they molested here in any way. Collector Milne has held that he has no jurisdiction over them.

Road Meeting at Burgoyne Bay.

Our representative, Mr. Booth, of the Islands electoral district, called a meeting of the residents of Borgoyne Bay and Beaver Point on the 29th day of April last, for the purpose of selecting a road-master for the above named districts for the ensuing year. The meeting was well attended, almost every resident of the districts being present, showing the interest taken in road matters here.

After selecting a chairman and a secretary Mr. Booth addressed the meeting in a manner suitable to his followers and fitted for the occasion. He began by saying he was in favor of his constituents electing their own road-masters annually, but he was to be a competent man and the right person, or Mr. Gore, deputy commissioner of lands and works, would not accept him as road-master, as the government wished to keep the roads under their control, and the government appropriations would not last all the time, as there would soon be an end to the money; but so long as there was money in the country he would try and get all he could of it for the Island. He concluded his speech by telling his followers he wished them to elect their road-master, but no one else but the person whom he wished to fill the position.

There is no doubt about the truth of Mr. Booth's statement about the money coming to an end. As for Mr. Gore knowing whether a person was a good road-master or not, by having his name returned to his office as the person selected by the people it is more than any person can tell.

Such knowledge as our member is bountifully bestowed with is surely to be admired, but when he promises his constituents to allow them to appoint their own road-master and then appoints one himself, we lose faith in his promises and fair dealings towards us.

Matters of this kind will exist in communities where there are people who are not independent enough to express their views for fear of not getting a few days work on the government roads. RESIDENT.

General Dispatches.

Albany, N. Y., May 9.—The last statement written by Carlyle Harris has been received by the department of State. It will be held, however, until the arrival of Mrs. Harris, who will be allowed to dispose of it as she sees fit. She is expected here this afternoon. The statement contains nearly 1800 pages.

New Haven, Conn., May 9.—C. Nolan, junior class, died this morning of peritonitis. He has been ill since Friday, rowing with his class last Thursday. He was 23, and one of the most popular men in his class, belonging to Psi Upsilon fraternity and glee club. His father, John Nolan, of Chicago, a noted specialist, arrived just before his son's death, but too late to treat the young man. His class met and adopted appropriate resolutions this morning.

Sing Sing, May 9.—Funeral services over the remains of Carlyle Harris were held in the prison chapel this morning at 9:10, the prison chaplain officiating. Mrs. Harris and her son Allan, Mrs. Golding, Edward Morrell and two others were present. After services those present viewde the remains. The party left the prison at 9:55 to go on the 10:30 train to Albany. The hearse containing the body of Harris passed through the south gate of the prison. This is the first time a hearse has left the prison bearing a convict's body.

Utica, N. Y., May 9.—J. B. Wells & Co.'s furnishing store was burned this morning. Loss about $250,000. The fire was caused by a customer lighting a cigar and throwing the match among some laces, muslins, etc. There was a panic in the store but no lives were lost.

New York, May 8.—The senatorial subcommittee appointed to visit California, and make a thorough investigation looking to the settlement of the deep water harbor question, which has been a vexed problem in the senate for several years, leave here to-day. Senator Ransom is chairman of the committee, and colleagues are Vest, White of Louisiana, Washburn, and Cullon. The latter will join the committee in Chicago. The investigation and the trip will occupy six weeks. There has for several years been a demand for a deep water harbor on the southern coast of California, but owing to a contest between San Pedro and Santa Monica nothing definite has been accomplished. Under the resolution the committee is authorised to visit such other places on the Pacific coast already existing or proposed as the interests of commerce shall demand. The most important of these, next to the ones already mentioned, is the proposed canal from Lake Washington to Puget Sound, which will cost in the neighborhood of three millions of dollars.

Edward Holmes' Long Walk.

Mr. Edward Holmes is about to start on a novel expedition, being no less than a pedestrian tour across the continent, following the line of the C. P. R. from Ottawa to the coast. He expects his journey to take about five months, and he will walk the whole way, making about 20 miles per day. The trip across the continent by rail has now been made by thousands, and has been so often described that its features are familiar to the general public, but this expedition of Mr. Holmes' is entirely novel, as he will see a great many things and meet with incidents not to be encountered in a commonplace railway journey. His chief object is to get information relative to the best fishing and shooting grounds along the line of the C. P. R., which may be given to the public in a tangible form after the trip is over.

This is not Mr. Holmes' first venture of this kind. In 1885, he and a friend spent some time on a "walk" in Central America, their object being to investigate some buried cities. They started from Bize and reached Guatemala when the Barrios revolution was in full swing, and being regarded with suspicion by the government were politely escorted to the coast. Again, in 1889, with some friends, he spent three months tramping through Japan. Having seen the tin mines in the Straits Settlement and the silver mines in Guatemala, he will take a special interest in the Sudbury mining region when he arrives there.—Empire.

An Attempt to Burglarize.

An attempt was made shortly before 12 o'clock last night to burglarize the residence at No. 19 Rae street. The would-be burglar in attempting to lift the front window awoke the gentleman who was sleeping in the front room. A lively run ensued, the burglar keeping in the lead, along Rae, Douglas and down Broughton street. Here a police officer joined in the chase, but this did not prevent the burglar losing himself among the Transfer stables.

The Methodist Conference.

The annual meeting of the conference of the Methodist church of British Columbia will begin at New Westminster to-morrow with the ministerial session. The general session will begin on Friday. The conference will sit about a week. The stationing committee are in session to-day. The island is represented on the latter by Rev. J. W. White of Victoria and Rev. A. E. Green of Wellington. Revs. G. H. Morden, Coverdale Watson, S. Wilkinson, and J. E. Gardner leave in the morning to attend the ministerial session and on Thursday morning James Gray and D. Spencer leave to sit in the general session.

RECEIVING REPORTS.

General Celebration Committee Receive Reports of Sub-Committees.

The general celebration committee met last evening, Mayor Beaven in the chair. There was a very small attendance, but a good deal of business was disposed of.

The finance committee reported that after a most careful canvass they estimated that the most they could collect was $2,400, which, with the $1,000 promised by the council would total $3,400. The report contained a detailed statement of the amounts granted to the sub committees. The report was laid on the table until after the reports of the sub-committees had been received.

The sub-committees' reports contained the results of meetings, particulars of which have been published.

Mr. J. S. Yates as a member of the regatta committee objected to their appropriations being cut down. The committee, he said, had figured as closely as possible. The professional prizes had been cut down, while the amount for amateur races had been increased.

The James Bay Baseball club wrote stating that the appropriation for a baseball match was totally inadequate and they could not play for that amount.

The James Bay Lacrosse club wrote stating that they had arranged for a match with the New Westminster junior club, and they asked that the event be published on the programme.

There was a good deal of objection to the action of the finance committee in deciding what amounts should be given to the various sub-committees. One gentleman characterized it as "impertinent and insulting."

The committee proceeded to consider the finance committee's report. When the appropriation for sports and games was being discussed a member of the Victoria Athletic club stated that they would not be able to give an exhibiton this year on account of the absence of several members of the club. He moved that the amount appropriated for the exhibition be given to the general field sports. It was moved in amendment that part of the money be given to the junior lacrosse club.

It was finally decided that the amount of $625 be appropriated for sports and games, and the sports and games committee be asked to make a further report.

All the other items of the report were adopted, and it was decided that the various sub-committees, in conjunction with the chairman of the finance committee, have the power to select and purchase prizes.

On motion it was decided to add the names of the chairmen of the sub-committees to the reception committee.

After disposing of several other routine matters the meeting adjourned.

The Motion is not Up.

There is a motion ready at the city clerk's office proposing that the corporate seal be affixed to the police barracks contract in order that Contractor Burns may go ahead with the work, but no alderman has as yet signed it, so it is not on the board. It will most likely go up this evening.

Entertainment at Esquimalt.

The concert at the Methodist church, Esquimalt, this evening, will be heard by a large crowd for the sale of tickets has been large. One splendid feature of the entertainment will be the part that sailors will take in it. Parties from town can make direct connection with the car line and get back to the city in good season.

A Severe Fall.

George McAuley fell over the ballustrade of the Telegraph hotel last evening. Both of his knee caps were broken and he sustained a severe cut and shattering of the bone over his right eye. He was attended by Dr. Ernest Hall, who dressed the wound. He is doing very well to-day, but it will be some time before he will be able to be about town again. He is still at the hotel.

Safely Hatched Swans.

The old dowager swan at the park has hatched out a nice family of cygnets. The youngsters chipped the shell yesterday and then hopped out one after the other. Madame, the mother, seems to be immensely elated over the success, and struts around bossing the little swans in great style. These additions to the park's population are now being viewed by large and admiring crowds.

All With One Shot.

There is a shooting gallery man in town who was very angry yesterday. He snapped a rifle which, to his surprise, was loaded, and the bullet clipped off a piece of his finger. That was bad enough, but the bullet had to speed on and hit the bullseye of a target, which started an automatic band playing and a lot of automatic animals jumping. That seemed mockery, and the man was wrathful enough to kick the whole lot of automatons to pieces. But the music played on, harrowing his soul to the finish.

The Miowera will leave Sidney on May 18th and will arrive here June 9th, leaving five days later. The Warrino will leave Sidney June 17th, arriving here July 8th, and leaving again on July 14th. Both the steamers are 5000 tons burden, and will run 15 knots an hour, making the trip from Sidney to Victoria, calling at Brisbane and Honolulu, in 21 days. The fare for the round trip will be $300. The line is to be operated in connection with the C.P.R.

A New Shortening.

The first consignment of cottonlene, a new shortening, has been received from the east by Messrs. Erskine, Wall & Co. It is a product of cotton oil, and is taking the place of butter and lard for cooking purposes. It costs less and goes further than either lard or butter.

Southward Bound.

The steamer Umatilla sailed for San Francisco this morning with the following cabin passengers from this port: Captain Wm. Webster, W. S. Hampson, James Scobin and daughter, Charles Rapp, R. McCalmont, R. L. Patterson, E. E. Sheppard, J. H. Walker, H. D. Croft, Panda Kokrin, Sister Mary Eloise, Sister Mary Joseph and Sister Benedict.

Committee Meetings.

The sports and games committee in connection with the celebration will meet this evening at the city hall, when they will re-arrange their programme, the James Bay baseball club having refused to play, and the Victoria Athletic club having decided not to give an exhibition. The reception committee will meet on Thursday evening.

A Pleasing Entertainment.

The Young People's Literary Association of the First Presbyterian Church gave the farewell indoor entertainment of the year last evening. There was a very pleasing programme given, after which refreshments were served. During the summer the association will give a series of outdoor entertainments at the Victoria gardens. The attendance last evening was very good.

June Sales.

Several important sales have been booked for May by Messrs. J. P. Davies & Co. On Tuesday, June 13th, by order of the executors of Wm. Fisher, there will be sold land in Lake, Esquimalt, Highland and Metchosin districts. On the same day there will be a mortgagee's sale of five subdivisions of sections 53 and 54, Fernwood estate; seven subdivisions of sections 53 and 54, Fernwood estate. June the 14th is the day fixed for the annual sale of naval stores, and on the 15th, Messrs. A. B. Gray & Co.'s stock of liquors and cigars and the balance of McLean & Stewart's gents' clothing will be sold.

West Coast Marble.

Last season Mr. W. F. Anderson, a prospector who had spent several months in the districts of the west coast, discovered a number of large and valuable veins of marble of different descriptions. Seattle capitalists were interested in the discoveries and as a result a party was organized to go over the property. In the party were Mr. Anderson and Mr. Dewsnap, an expert. They visited the property and returned this morning on the steamer Rainbow. Mr. Anderson has already given his views in regard to the value of the marble veins, and his views are supported by the opinion of Mr. Dewsnap. They will report to the Seattle capitalists, who will probably send machinery down and establish quarries.

Physical Culture.

Miss Mabel Jenness, the apostle of physical culture and dress reform, is as far removed from the traditional strong-minded female as can be well imagined. She is a handsome, healthy young woman, refined and womanly in her every movement, and gifted with rare intelligence. She is a brunette, with clear-cut almost Grecian features, exquisitely refined in her manners, and combining great neatness and elegance in her attire. The grace and ease of her carriage, the polish of her manners, and the classical and intellectual mould of her features, combine to make her thoroughly charming. Miss Jenness lectures this evening at the Victoria theatre on physical culture and dress reform.

Verdict—$1100.

In the action for trespass brought by Dennis R. Harris against the Brunette Sawmill Company, of New Westminster, in which the former claimed $3000, as stated in yesterday's Times, the Hon. A. N. Richards, Q.C., to-day recalled a witness and at the conclusion of his examination, counsel for the respective parties addressed the court and jury, and Mr. Justice Drake summed up the evidence and laid down the principles of law which were to govern them in arriving at a verdict. The jury retired and were locked up for 20 minutes, when they returned with a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $1100.

Mr. Wilson, while the jury were considering what their verdict was to be, formulated his objections to the charge of the judge to the jury, and argument on the points raised is being heard before the trial judge. The principal point taken is very similar to that decided a few weeks ago by Mr. Justice Drake in the case of Adams vs. the tramway company, namely, how far a company can be held liable for the alleged wrongful act of a servant.

Hon. A. N. Richards, Q.C., and Mr. Luxton appear for the plaintiff, and Mr. Charles Wilson for the defendants.

Dr. Mary McNeill, late resident physician of Wesley Hospital, Chicago, has opened an office at rooms 3 and 4, Doane block. She will confine her practice to diseases of women and children.

HOSPITAL DIRECTORS MEET.

A Number of Matters Pertaining to the Institution Dealt With.

The meeting last evening of the directors of Jubilee Hospital was attended by President Joshua Davies and Directors Alexander Wilson, E. C. Baker, W. M. Chudley, I. Braverman, G. H. Brown, H. D. Helmcken and F. H. Worlock. It was held at the office of Yates, Jay and Russell.

Dr. Richardson, the resident medical officer, presented a report covering a number of matters relating to the management of the affairs of the hospital. He recommended after having given the matter reconsideration that the kitchen arrangement be left as it now is, it being less expensive. A number of other changes involving a saving in expenditure were proposed. Permission was asked to utilize an unused linen closet for a dark room in which to treat eye troubles. Ventilation in the large wards was also dealt with, as was the jolting of the ambulance, which will be remedied by a rearrangement of the stretcher. The report also called attention to the collection of sewage on the grounds at the hospital.

Mr. Chudley certified to the correctness of the latter part of the report. There were several pools of fetid water near the main gate, which were a menace to the health of all who passed in or out. It was something that demanded immediate attention.

The report went to the committee for the month and the different matters in it will be looked up.

Dr. Richardson also submitted with his report a statement of the cost of dietaries for the last four months. It showed a gradual reduction and promised a still greater one in the future. The reduction in the cost of food supplies since January had been from $1100 to $900. The report stated that in the opinion of the matron the meals furnished were such that no fault could be found with them. This report also went to the committee of the month. The remark was made that despite the statements as to meals complaints were made about them.

Miss M. McMillan, the matron, reported that during April one new probationer had been received, Miss Stewart, of Victoria. No other changes were made in the nursing staff. Everything was running smoothly, and during the month donations had been received as follows: Samaritan Home, per Mrs. Flumerfelt and Mrs. Hall, five bottles claret, cake, jelly and salads; Mrs. C. E. Redfern, books, and Mrs. G. A. McTavish, flowers. The report was received and filed.

House Steward Jenkins stated that during April the supplies had been generally good. Henry Saunders, Mrs. McTavish and Mrs. D. R. Harris had kindly given flowers for beautifying the hospital grounds, which Mr. Saunders had had planted.

Accounts for the month totalling $2,119.33, and a salary list of $571 were presented by the treasurer. There was considerable discussion on the charges made for certain drugs. It was proposed to buy in a larger market, but this was opposed by Mr. Worlock and others, who favored buying at home. The matter will in future be watched. A donation of $100 over his bill from Capt. Wm. Power, and a reduction of $25 in the bill of the Victoria Truck and Dray Company were both acknowledged by a unanimous vote of thanks.

The statistics of the hospital for April showed a slight decrease in the number of patients under treatment. At the close of March their number was 37; during April 22 were admitted, 24 were discharged and there were three deaths, leaving 32 patients in hospital on May 1st. During the month the average number of patients was 34.5; of the old time convalescents on the free list only two are now left—one of whom as admitted in 1887 and the other a year later.

The board adjourned at about 9:30.

Smallpox in County Court.

In County Court to-day, the Chief Justice sitting as judge, the greater part of the day was taken up with hearing the case of J. H. King, of Caledonia avenue, against the Corporation. On the 15th of January last the plaintiff assisted in burying a child who had died of smallpox and although, as he claims, he took every precaution to guard against the spread of the disease, he was on the 17th following, at the instance of the city's police officers, arrested and with the whole of his family taken to the Ross Bay suspect station and there kept for 11 days. When he was released he found that goods had been stolen from his house, that 36 chickens had been allowed to starve, that his horses had been ill used and that things in general about the house were upside down. He now claims $247 for damages and loss sustained as above, or in the alternative damages generally in $250. Mr. Thornton Fell appears for the plaintiff and Mr. Prior (of Eberts & Taylor) for the Corporation.

Judgment was given for the corporation, but without costs.

A Narrow Escape.

An elderly gentleman in attempting to board a car at the corner of Government and Fort streets at noon to-day, slipped from the step and fell across the track in front of the wheels. The car was moving and the wheels were only a few feet from his body, but by quick action on the part of the motorneer and conductor, a horrible accident was prevented. The conductor turned on the brakes while the motorneer reversed the driving power. As a result the car jumped back just before it reached the prostrate man.

The Rainbow Returns.

The steamer Rainbow, which arrived from the west coast this morning, brought as passengers: Captain Warren, W. J. Leker and wife, Kyoquot; Messrs. Dewsnap, Anderson, Dawson and J. McCann, Barclay; N. Sage and J. Carpenter, San Juan. The schooner Venture had secured her Indian crew and was ready to leave for the north. The weather along the coast has been fine.

Looking for His Brother.

A young Englishman named Alfred Gardner arrived in town last night direct from England, and spent to-day in fruitless search for his brother Charles, who, he thinks, is living here. If Charles is in Victoria he can find his brother at the Dominion Hotel.

HUMAN SOCIETY.

Archbishop Gross Lectures Upon This Interesting Subject.

HE RIDICULES DARWIN'S THEORY

Men Never Sprung From Monkeys—Scriptural Statements Authentic—Records of the Earliest Times Quoted as Proof.

There was a very appreciative audienc present to listen to His Grace Archbishop Gross last evening in the Y. M. I. hall, whn he lectured on "Human Society." The front seats were occupied by some very prominent people, and the body of the hall was comfortably filled. On the platform with His Grace were His Lordship the Bishop, the clergy of the church and the officers of the Y. M. I.

The following address was presented to His Grace by Mr. D. McBrady.

To the Most Reverend William H. Gross, C. SS R., D. D., Archbishop of Oregon:

May it please your Grace: Your presence in our midst to-day is a source of unalloyed pleasure to each and every member of the Catholic congregation of Victoria, but particularly is it a cause of rejoicng to the members of Seghers Council, No. 85, Y. M. I.. We, as a society, have therefore deemed it but just, the more so that you are here under our auspices, to embody our sentiments of respect and esteem towards your Grace in a formal address of welcome.

As one who, by his learning and eloquence, has placed jewels of Catholic truth in a setting calculated to show forth their beauty and purity to the best advantage and to attract to them the attention of a too careless age, we, who are proud to claim the grand old Catholic church as our mother, bid you welcome, thrice welcome, to our midst. But in your consistent friendship towards, and constant encouragement of, the Y. M. I. as a society for young men, do we, its members in this city, recognize your strongest claim upon our hospitality.

No greater proof can be adduced of the divine origin of our holy mother the church than the facility with which she furnishes her children with means to meet and successfully combat the varying evil tendencies of each succeeding age. „In union is strength," is the motto of our times; in all lines of human endeavor the present tendency is towards the concentration of individual energies and the absorption of individual enterprise into gigantic corporations. The church, n striking conformity of her Divine Master's promise, "I shall be with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world," has speedily met this new order of things. By promulgating the dogma of the infallibility of the Holy See, she has cemented her children in a mystical union that never has and never will be paralleled, and, not content with this, she has everywhere encouraged the formation of Catholic societies to battle for God and the right. Such is the character of the Y. M. I. Under the fostering care of the clergy tens of thousands of able bodied soldiers of the cross march under the banner on which is emblazoned in letters of gold the words "Pro deo pro patria." Shoulder to shoulder we march onward, bearing aloft the shield of our holy religion, basing our reasoning on the authority of the church, encouraged by the wise counsel of our pastors and bound together by golden links of Christian charity and Catholic brotherhood.

Your Grace, by the earnest solicitude you have ever evinced for the advancement of our society, has shown how thoroughly you are in touch with the policy of the church in this regard. Your presence here this evening is but another proof of that solicitude, and we, the members of Seghers Council, No. 85, of the Y. M. I., thank you sincerely for this further evidence of your interest in our society in general, and in the welfare of our own council in particular.

In conclusion we would express the hope that you may long continue to be a sincere friend of the Y. M. I., a striking figure in the American hierarchy, and a distinguished prelate of our holy mother, the church, and beg leave to subscribe ourselves, Rev. J. A. Van Nevel, T. Deasy, F. H. Lang, F. J. Sehl, D. McBrady, on behalf of Seghers Council, No. 85, Y. M. I.

In reply His Grace said: Monseigneur, Rev. Fathers, Ladies and Gentlemen—I must thank very much the speaker for the very flattering welcome and reception that he has tendered to me this evening in the name of the society that he represents and of the ladies and gentlemen present. I will not intrude upon your time by telling you how deep an interest I take in the welfare of any society that will promote the welfare of the young man, but I will only say that this is not my first visit to Victoria. I have been here before, as perhaps some of you may remember, and on occasions that will ever remain stamped on the memory of my soul as wonderful scenes, as well in this venerable building at my first visit I gave the pallium to that venerable man and martyr to his duty, Monsigneur Seghers; I came back again when his martyred body was brought here for burial, and I came afterwards to you, Monsiegneur, on what I remember a very pleasant occasion, when, also in this building, hallowed with the souvenirs of very many pleasant occasions, I had the distinguished honor of conferring upon you the dignity of episcopate. I am, therefore, no stranger in your midst, and I will simply say that on all occasions the clergy seemed to vie with the laity in making my stay have each time more of that value of a Cead Mille Failthe and happiness and what not, and this reception has been in keeping with the rest.

And now, as I promised you, I will give you a few ideas of my own this evening on the subject that, while it does not admit of any grand display of poetical or oratorical effusions, it is after all one that is of most vital importance, and that is "Human Society." When we look around this world we are struck by the many varieties of nationalities, are we not? It is supposed that this world at present contains a human population just now of somewhere about two billions; and the variety of races—the black race, the red race, the yellow one and the white race—and the variety of civilizations in the different races, the religions and what not. Then the question comes: whence did all this spring? I know, even in our days, a theory has been started by certain men under the sacred shelter of science (pretending for a moment that such a hypothesis has any scientific foundation) that man originally came from a beast, and that the animal by some sort of way developed himself into a higher class of animal, and so on from one class to another till at last he became a savage man, and from the savage man he became an enlightened one, and there is the race of human society. Now, my dearly beloved friends, that is a bare assertion, without a shadow of proof, but, on the contrary, is entirely disproved by the wonderful discoveries that have been made. Is it not just in our own day that such a wonderful discovery has been made as the key to the Egyotian hieroglyphics? It is only 70 or 80 years ago that the key was discovered by that illustrious Frenchman that has opened to us the immense treasures of Egypt. Many of you no doubt have seen them in the British museum, in the gallery of the Louvre, in the Vatican, and in the great treasures of science and art in Europe you will find there books, papyrus; you will find there mosaics and works of art that have been taken from the tombs of Egypt, where they were placed before the birth of Abraham. Then you have here in our own day another great triumph of the intellect of man in the discovery of the language, where we have the language of Babylon and the Ninevites opened to us. You have, some of you, seen these great triumphs of art and science in the British museum, in the Louvre, the Vatican, Brussels and other European cities. You have the benefit of the works of great travellers and men; the discoveries made in digging out the ruins of Troy; the wonders of those old East Indian cities; the tremendous discoveries that have been made in the renaissance works. What do all these works show you in proof of the assertion of these men that man came from an animal? When you look back a few thousand years you find forms; you will see them in the relievos, you will see them on the frescoed walls of ancient Egypt, in the books of Egypt, in the Nineveh papyrus; you have all the learning of Eastern India, and what is the result? Why you see the animal of five thousand years ago. The horse is the same animal; you have the pictures of the horse and he is the same. Pliny, who lived only two thousand years ago, is, in face of the discoveries that have been made, comparatively a modern author, and in those books, written before the birth of Abraham, there you have the same animal. Yet these men assert that the monkey, through a stage of development, in the in the course of which he somewhere drops a caudal appendage, gradually becomes a human being. Now you have these annals in sculptures and books for five thousand years back, but do you see any change from now? You see man; yes, but do you see any change or progress? Why, I remember reading some time ago (it was about the old Egyptian hieroglyphics, where it was claimed that a portion of history was written before Moses was a boy, and that, my friends, was some time ago. (Laughter.) But with all those discoveries that have been laid open to us, the riches of Egypt, the languages of Nineveh and Babylon, there is one book that gives us the true history of all the races, and that is the Holy Bible. Take its account of the deluge; there you see proof away back thousands of years ago. There is all the proof that is wanted even if scientific investigation did not go to show the true origin of human society. That book says that in the beginning God created this world, this majestic temple, and when He had made it a fit abode for man. He created man's body. That body did not spring from a beast or an animal; it was the creation of God, and you know my friends that any learned man who will study that body will not acknowledge that there is any body of an animal that will compare with the majestic splendor of the human body. Any one who has the merest smattering of physiology will ackowledge that the human body is the grandest masterpiece of the material world. And there is one dignity in the human body over that of the animal. God created the human body; yes, and He gave to the human body His spirit, and that spirit belongs to the angelic world by its nature, for angels are spirits. That spirit belongs to the divine realm, for though God is a spirit and infinite, our spirit is of Him, though we are merely finite. And God created man, but he needed a companion. Now it is a self-evident proposition that an animal is not a sufficient companon for man, so that when God created man a companion He created woman; and it was God that led man to woman and therefore formed human society; human society was the work of God himself. But man's body and soul became injured by original sin; but in the full tide of his perfection, in the glory and splendor of this world, God looked down and saw that all things were extremely good. That God created human society satisfies all human history; it is proof that man was made by God, and that man need not degrade himself by going back to the monkey for his origin. But there is something more to show that society was made by God, for man needs society; man was made by God for society. Take the child that is just born. There it lies, that baby. The animal does not know society; the animal could take care of its body much quicker. Is there anything more helpless than a new born baby? What would it do without its mother, without its father? There it lies, that little baby, and all it can do that I know of is to squall right well. (Laughter.) And if you consider that an accomplishment you have a most magnificent one. It lies there, and it would starve there with food about it if the mother did not place it in its mouth; it would freeze to death without its clothing. It lies there, a poor, helpless being, dependent on its mother and father; weeks must pass by, months, and even years, and that child is dependent for the support of its body, for the development of its body, its protection, its food and its clothing, upon the father and mother. Why, the poor little chick is hardly out of the shell before he is able to take care of himself. The animal knows his food and where to get it, and he does not require any new style of dress. He does not need society, but man needs society. But man does not need society for the support of his body; he needs society for the development of his mind. Look upon that child once more? How much more intelligent is the baby than the animal? You would be rather apt to give a vote for the intelligence of the animal. I have seen the mocking bird taken from the nest; it never heard it's father's song; it was taken and imprisoned in a cage; and yet that mocking bird, like other birds, grew up to sing the songs its fathers sang. But what sort of a song does the baby sing? About one or two o'clock in the morning you have a midnight serenade (laughter) which is very interesting. The bee will make its hive, as the bees did in the days of the Pharaohs, and maybe beyond that, as they did thousands of years ago; the bird builds its nest as the birds have from time immemorial he needs no instructor, no teacher. The man needs an instructor to develop his mind; he needs society. In society he finds all that can develop his intellect, so as to make him truly representative of God, and his mind as well as his body can only be properly developed in society.

But there is something else which shows the difference between man and the animal. The animal has no higher aspirations; he has no idea of a moral code; no remorse or conscience. Then the truth, my friends, is that man has a soul and that soul was made for God. But man may become an angel in the beauty of his virtue, and this world would not satisfy him. It will satisfy the animal, but not the cravings of the human heart; the animal will be satisfied if he has enough to eat and drink, but not so man. You may give a man all the sensual gratification he wishes, but that will not satisfy him. Man is not wholly bound to this world, there is something more, beyond, that man wants.

Alexander conquered the world, and wept because there were no more worlds to conquer; ambition was the downfall of Caesar, and we have seen men in our own day, gather millions and millions together, and when death struck them they were still speculating for more millions. These things do not satisfy the human heart; the human heart was made for God. Let it have infinite wealth and glory, and we all love glory, and it all does not satisfy the human heart which is made for God. You may plunge yourself in sensual gratification, you may gratify your sensual desires to the extent of a Solomon and you would still cry with him: "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity and vexation of spirit." But what models we have to guide the soul, you have those holy people Cecilia, Agnes, Francois Xavier, and all those whose holy lives are resplendent in the firmament of Heaven. Man has conscience, and it is said that conscience makes cowards of us all. The animal feels neither conscience nor remorse. Take the little boy, though, who has done wrong; he need not tell you, his face shows it all and how often a child who has done something wrong will not feel at ease until he goes to his mamma and humbly confesses what he has done. There is remorse. One of our eminent pagan philosophers has said that this conscience was a thing which could never excite his admiration too highly. And the heart of man, when conscience is followed, is capable of grand and splendid dignity; it is then that they are indeed angels in flesh and blood. But woe to the man who does not rein in both his heart and his conscience. No animal will descend to such bestialities, if you will pardon me for using such a term; no animal can become so cruel as man; no animal so filthy as man; and we would fear less the wild beasts of the forests than the wicked man, your thieves, your murderers and robbers, aye, and your bad women also.

Man is what society has made of him. You take two boys, born of the same father and mother. Have one placed among all the holy influence that will develop all that is spiritual in him. Bring him up thus and he is his father's pride, for there is no greater happiness to a father than a good son and a noble daughter. Take the brother of that boy and put him down in the slums of some big city where he is surrounded with nothing but what is evil and vicious from his babyhood up; he becomes a pest to society. There is no more cruel affliction to a father or mother than a bad child. I have seen the hot tears flowing down the strong manly face of a father; I have seen the mother's head whitened by gray hairs brought there, not by the weight of years, but by the bad behavior of her sons and daughters; aye, it needs no proof of mine, dearly beloved friends, to tell you that there is no more exquisite anguish and pain this side of the lower regions, for a father and mother than a bad child, and the child, as a rule, is made in society, that you know. Therefore, man depends on society for the development of his nature. Now, my friends, the component part of society, after all, is the family, is it not? What the stones are in the wall, so is the family in society. If society wants virtue among fathers it looks to the family; if our country needs brave soldiers, we go back to the family; legislators who are fearless, judges who will not stain the ermine, eloquent orators and profound scholars, all are raised in the family; we need the mother of the family if we are to expect fair young ladies in society. You will remember that God is not a solitary God—God is a triune God, and man finds in this world the imitation of that printed in "the father, the bride and the child." That is the connecting link that binds the father and mother together; and is it not in the family that the man feels most happy. Oh, that old English song, "Home, Sweet Home," has a power over the human heart, home and family! And, my friends, what is God? God is love, infinite love and charity. And, though, as I have said, there is nothing so helpless as a new born babe, yet that babe is never so safe as in it's mother's arms. It will want for nothing there. God is charity—and I ask you what it is that binds the heart of mother and father in that family? There are chains stronger than adamant; chains that sparkle more brilliantly than gold, it is the mother's love for her child, it is the fther's love for the child—it is love that binds the wife to her husband, it is the chain of love that binds parents to child and child to parents.

I speak from a little experience. I look back on my home, more than 3000 miles away, and I think of father and mother, and though more than half a century has passed over my head since I was a child, can I ever forget those blue eyes that shone with a mother's love on my childhood's years; can I ever forget the manly father—Oh, God, listen—if we could only get back. When we look back to father and mother we get mad with ourselves because we did not love them half as much as we ought to have loved them. Oh, why didn't I appreciate it?—why did I have to wait till I was a white-headed old man before I recognized how much I loved them?

And now you will understand me, friends, about one thing more. Man fell. You all know the story of that. And with the fall of man came suffering and fearful abuses in marriage. The poor woman had to go to the wall first. She became the slave; she had no "rights," that we of the sterner sex lay claim to, at all at all, and as far matrimony, when we hear of a gentleman having a thousand wives, he went pretty liberally into that business. (Laughter.) As far other abuses and other horrors, I would not shock my esteemed audience by even hinting at them. But my friends, there came a Redeemer that was to save mankind, and we are apt to say and think, my friends, that this world was redeemed only by the sacrifice on Calvary. But that was not all; oh indeed no. That sacrifice on Calvary was necessary; but we were a fallen family; we had to be lifted up, as Christ explains to the Jews when telling of the poor fellow, who, on his way to Jericho fell among robbers and was left half dead, human society was in a state then, as I remember once I was preaching in a place, and I said to a woman there, "Why, you are half-drunk again, woman, what do you mean?" "I'm not half-drunk," she says; "your are." I answered: "Excuse me, your reverence, it's two-thirds drunk I am," she replied. (Laughter.) And so I always think of the two-thirds story when I hear of this comparison of the man going to Jericho, and the poor human family seemed to be a little more than two-thirds dead when we had the fearful abuses in the family, in matrimony, slavery existed, for the poor women were the meanest slaves. Society had to be redeemed, to be lifted up and cured of its evils, and now, my dear friends, you will understand the reason of the Redeemer coming to the world as he did. He might have came through many different ways, but he came through the family, which had to be redeemed, and Crist is the one who redeemed it.

Immediately matrimony took its honored state, and you well remember how he answered the Jews who asked him if it should be lawful for a man to divorce his wife for any cause whatever. As it was in the beginning, created by God in paradise, a model family, one husband, one wife. And this it is that has elevated woman. Look in every nation where Christianity has gone and there you find woman enjoying all her rights, an honored being, loved and loving, able to perform her splendid work in society. I will not ask what woman was before this Redeemer came in to this world, but I would ask you to just look around at those countries where Christianity has not been received in its fulness, and observe the state of woman. Look at the Indians, the Chinese, the Mohammedans, among whom a woman is supposed to have no soul. Look at the negro, the Africans, I have lived amongst them. The first nurse to wait upon me was a negro slave. Look, my friends, at those nations that have received Christianity and you will find there woman in her proper sphere. She exercises her rights in those nations where the doctrine of Jesus Christ has been promulgated. Look at the family through which he came. How noble is St. Joseph: how tender and kind his treatment of the Blessed Virgin, when he had every reason to suspect her of that sin which stabs a man's heart most; how gracious his treatment of his foster child, whom he conveyed across the desert to save from death. And the child, how humble and obedient. And the Virgin mother, oh what can I say of that sweet, fair mother? I will not quote you the angels' praises of her. Yes, my friends, you know that history is full of beautiful tales recorded of a mother's love for her child, but hers was the sweetest; she went to the gibbet of her son, you will find that mother following him to the gibbet and from the midst of a wild storm of pain and agony about them she stood there rising far above the weakness of her sex, giving him the sweet sympathy and aid of a mother's presence, the mother's trust, the mother's powerful love.

Oh, is she not a model mother of society? Is he not a model child? But there is one beautiful spot in history where it says, "And he went back to Nazareth and was subject to them." Yes, there is the model child: in loving obedience he was subject to his father and his mother. There is that Holy Family, and from that came the new society, founded by Jesus Christ for the redemption, and therefore I wish, you dearly beloved friends, nothing higher than that you should each one of you conform your lives to the purity and love and nobleness of that Holy Family.

THE STARVING JAPS.

"Japanese Friend" Replied to by a Union Correspondent—Who is Responsible?

Union, May 5.—"Japanese Friend," in reply to my correspondence about Japs in my last communication, says that my statement is not correct. "Japanese Friend" evidently is not a friend of the Japs, but of the Japanese Immigration Company, whom he tries to screen. He says "their troubles are due to their own faults and their laziness," but that does not rid the immigration company of the responsibility. Your correspondent had it from a representative of the Japanese government, sent out here from Japan to look after the condition of the Japs, and who was at Union last autumn, that the immigration company knew well the class of people they were bringing over. They knew that the Japs were of the lowest kind. The immigration company acted dishonestly with the Japs because it led them to believe that they could earn more here than in Japan. It did not tell them that the small pittance given them would not buy the necessaries of life. The immigration company acted dishonestly with the Union Coal Company, for they tried to force upon the company Japs who understood nothing about mining. The immigration company acted dishonestly with the province, for they sent in 180 Japs who would be anything but desirable citizens here, and the immigration company acted dishonestly with the Japanese government, for they satisfied the government that the Japs would be placed in a position to earn their living and would not become paupers in a strange land. Only on this condition were they allowed to leave Japan. The Japanese consul should see that the company does its duty in this respect. That they are lazy and ignorant reflects on the immigration company. They should not knowingly bring such a class of people into the country. When the immigration company found they could not work, "Japanese Friend" admits that their supplies were stopped. The company should see that they are fed until they are sent back home. The company is responsible for bringing them here. It should be responsible for their maintenance while here. "Japanese Friend" says friends in Victoria are sending them food. Two small sacks of rice were sent two weeks ago to feed 12 men! They have been living upon what has been given them by charitably disposed persons in Union. "Japanese Friend" says no money could be got to send sick Japs to Vancouver hospital. The immigration company should have provided the money. If it didn't the Japanese consul should see that the citizens of the country he represents have proper treatment. What is he appointed for? "Japanese Friend" says the people of Union know all about the matter. That is about the only statement he makes that is not misleading. Everybody in Union does know about the matter, and if "Japanese Friend" is as ignorant about the matter as he pretends to be, he would do well to inquire into their condition here. "Japanese Friend" says there are none of the representatives of the company on this side. Your correspondent noticed several of its representatives coming to Union when the Japs were earning any money, and if the matter was looked into probably some who are interested in the company could be found on this side. This may account for the negligence of those whose duty it is to assist the poor, starving Japs. Your correspondent can give "Japanese Friend" the names of two or three of the company's representatives on this side of the Pacific. "Japanese Friend" says that money is being sent from Japan. Are these starving Japs to be left in Union, living on what people like to give them till this money arrives? It was bad enough to send them here to take away work from white miners, but it is adding insult to injury to ask the miners to feed them, now that they are left to starve in their midst.

The first Japs that tried to escape from the clutches of the immigration company walked along the beach to Nanaimo. The police there received instructions to arrest them as vagrants. An agent of the company came up from the Victoria, appeared against them and had them sent back to Union. When they endeavored to better their condition their efforts were frustrated by their owners. "Japanese Friend" says they are now scattered over the country. They are a very desirable addition to the British Columbia population! Their "friend" admits they are lazy gamblers and would like to get food and clothes without working for them! Let us congratulate our government upon its immigration policy. What is left of 180 Japs who will not work for their living scattered throughout the province? Your correspondent advises "Japanese Friend" to read Capt. Robertson's paper on "Chinese in British Columbia." Let him read chapter xv. on trade with the Orient. There he will find what I suspect he knows already—the true inwardness of the trouble. The whole matter amounts to this: The immigration company invested in human beings. They invested in the poorest kind. They could not force the men on the coal company and they proved a loss to them. The immigration company is endeavoring to throw off its responsibility and leaving the Japs to starve, a disgrace to itself, a disgrace to our government for permitting immigration of this kind, and a disgrace to the coal company in endeavoring to get cheap labor in this way.

The San Pedro and the Sargent are loading at Union wharf. The Peters has left with a cargo of coal for the whalers in the Arctic ocean. A number of her sailors did not relish the voyage and deserted. She had to go to Port Townsend in tow for a fresh crew.

The coal trade is brisker here and the mines are being run steadily.

Dr. Callahan of Nanaimo is here in Dr. Lawrence's absence in Victoria. He is giving universal satisfaction.

Release of the Itata.

San Francisco, May 8.—Judges Morrow, Hawley and McKenna, sitting as the United States court of appeals, today affirmed the judgment of the district court of Southern California, dismissing the libel against the steamer Itata and releasing it and the 2,000 cases of rifles it had on board when seized. The decision, which was a long one and required over an hour for Judge Hawley to read, went into the details of the Chilian revolution. The libel filed in the Itata case charged a deliberate violation of section 5,284 of the United States revised statutes, and set forth that the Itata had been fitted out with intent to cruise and commit hostilities against a government with which the United States was at peace. It was pointed out that in the opinion of the court this condition of things was not borne out by the evidence. It was shown that by a curious combination of events the government of Chili has now intervened in this case, urging that the Itata, instead of being an enemy of the government of Chili, was in reality controlled by its friends.

It is now 16 years since Joseph Barnes, a well known vessel owner, of Toronto, disappeared, and he has never been heard of during this long period. Recently Chancellor Boyd, on a motion on behalf of the next of kin, declared Barnes legally dead. About $1000 will be divided among brothers and sisters of the missing man.

A case for submission to the supreme court in reference to the Manitoba schools has been drafted at Ottawa and submitted to the government of Manitoba and the Roman Catholic minority for their views. The supreme court was asked for an opinion on the question suggested by the sub-committee of the privy council, which considered the matter several weeks ago.

The New Brunswick brigade of garrison artillery on Wednesday of last week celebrated the 100th anniversary of the formation of the first artillery corps by firing a salute of 100 guns from four different ports. During the night or early Thursday morning some person got into the Martello tower at St. John and spiked one of the big guns by putting a file into the vent and breaking it in two. Another gun on Fort Howe was filled with stones and earth.

A dispatch from Port Arthur of Thursday last says: Six more cases of small-pox have been discovered among the immigrants who three weeks ago were located west of Fort William on account of the disease breaking out among them. One child died Tuesday. There are also a number of suspected cases. Dr. Smellie has been quarantined with them. It is difficult to obtain information of the patients, as there is no telephone communication with West Fort William. Most of the sufferers belong to one French family.

The Trinity college school, Port Hope, was fired at night recently and was badly gutted before the flames could be extinguished. An investigation of the origin of the fire showed it was an incendiary attempt, and suspicion falling on some of the scholars a roll call was held, with the result that three of them confessed to having set fire to the building, implicating three other boys. All six are under 12 years of age, some of them not ten, and they were impelled with only the spirit of mischief and the desire to be free from school for a while. They are all sons of wealthy and influential Canadians, the father of the ringleaders being a prominent Canadian millionaire.

Lieut.-Gen. Montgomery Moore, the successor of Sir John Ross as commander of her majesty's forces in Canada, was born in 1836. He was appointed lieutenant of the 78th dragoons in December, 1850, and was made captain of the same corps in 1856. In 1867 he was made major of the 4th Hussars and the following year was raised to the lieutenant-colonelcy. He was made brevet-colonel in the army in 1873 and major-general in 1884. He has had no war or foreign service, but has been A. D. C. to the general officer commanding the forces in Ireland, and from '87 to '92 was major-general commanding the forces in the southeastern division. He is said to be an able military man.

A large deputation, representing the iron mining industry from Fort William and Port Arthur, waited on the Dominion ministers and urged them to make no change in the iron duties. They said they had a company organized for smelting iron in the Port Arthur district, but rumors of the lowering of the tariff disturbed them. They asked that the tariff remain unchanged or that the bounty be increased in the event of the tariff being lowered. They were willing to accept a bounty of $5 a ton in lieu of the present duty of $4 a ton and a bounty of $2 a ton. They said the present duty tended to increase production. Last year's production was 60,000 tons against 23,000 the year before. Hon. Mr. Foster replied in a manner that was accepted as satisfactory. A Toronto metallurgist has found pure antimony in ore sent him for an analysis from the Sudbury district.

A Washington dispatch says: Nicholas Connolly, known in Canada as "Nick," of the Canadian firm of contractors, and who is president of the Richelieu Navigation Co., left town last evening for Montreal. The firm in question tendered for a $5,000,000 dredging contract at Philadelphia, but the contract has not yet been given. It is known that the Quebec men are nearly half a million lower than the most favorable American tenders. It is no secret that any amount of wire pulling is going on here to attempt to euchre Connolly out of the job. It is generally understood here that if the Connollys get the work other similar contracts of a very profitable nature will go to the same firm.

Trusts and Combinations

Are unpopular, but there is one form of trust against which no one has anything to say. That is the trust which the public reposes in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the best of it is the trust is fully justified by the merit of the medicine. For, remember, Hood's Sarsaparilla CURES.

HOOD'S PILLS are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. Sold by all druggists.

If you only knew how nice it is--Tamilkande Tea.

Strongly Recommended to Mothers.

The Best in the World!

A vast number of the best physisians of Canada advise the use of Lactated Food for the infant when breast milk fails in quantity and quality. Physicians give this advice honestly, as they are aware of the fact that Lactated Food is composed of elements that nourish, strengthen and build up the system.

When the supply of breast milk commences to fail mothers are often advised to use the Lactated Food themselves, instead of tea, coffee or cocoa. This article of diet tends to produce a more copious flow of pure and nutritious milk for the infant. When Lactated Food is used by the mother it has a grand tonic effect, and gives her strength to meet the drain upon her system caused by nursing. Mothers who have used Lactated Food say it has no equal in the world. All druggists in Canada declare it is the most popular food on the market.

LACROSSE.

HARD AT WORK.

The members of the Victoria senior team have realized that, no matter how well they play, they need a good deal of practice to win the match to be played on the 23rd. Last evening most of the players were out and had a couple of hours' good practice. Every member should turn out whenever there is an opportunity, as it is necessary to establish interest in the national game for the home team to commence the season well. There will probably be practices every night next week. The juniors should also turn out, as it will be necessary to promote some of them to the senior ranks.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

The first schedule match of the season is to be played at Vancouver on Saturday next between Westminster and Vancouver. Both teams are in good trim, having practiced steadily for several weeks. New Westminster has lost several of her best men, while Vancouver is as strong as ever. The match, however, will be a hard one.

ATHLETIC.

J. B. A. A. FIELD DAY.

The programme for the J. B. A. A. field day, to be held at the driving park on June 24th, is as follows:

Club Events—One hundred yards, flat; one hundred and twenty yards, hurdles, ten flights; quarter mile, flat; one mile, flat; half mile, handicap; sack race; blindfold race.

Events open to all amateurs—One hundred yards, flat; quarter mile, flat; one mile, flat; one mile, walk; one mile, bicycle handicap; five miles bicycle, handicap; one mile, steeplechase; high jump; long jump; putting 16 lb. shot; boys' race, under 16, handicap; tug-of-war, J. B. A. A. v. Brocton Point A. A.

THE OPEN AIR TOURNAMENT.

The committee of the James Bay Athletic Association having in charge the open air athletic meeting to be held on June 24th held a meeting at the club house last night and transacted much business. The committee have made final arrangements to hold the tournament at the Driving Park, which has been greatly improved since last summer, and will make an ideal place for the sports. It is believed that arrangements can be made with the street car company for a special service and reduced fares on the afternoon of the 24th of June. Ten minute cars and a five cent fare would draw thousands to the park. Mr. Billinghurst, the energetic hon. sec. of the committee, has a notice on the J. B. A. A. bulletin board urging all members of the club to go into training and enter for the sports and also to induce their friends to go out and see the fun. It rests with the members to make the meeting a success. The officers of the day selected are the leading sporting patrons of the province.

AN EXPERIENCED TRAINER.

M. Quilligan, the well-known professor of boxing, is also an experienced trainer of oarsmen, he having handled Hanlan for his Australian race as well as several other celebrities of the aquatic world. He has had a local proposition made to him as well as one from Vancouver, both of which he is considering. He is a good hard worker himself, and would be a handy man for any club this summer, as he would not confine himself to rowing alone.

CANOEING.

SATURDAY'S CRUISE.

The members of the Canoe Club will enjoy a cruise on Saturday next. A start will be made from the boathouse at 2 o'clock, and the canoes will go to the head of the Arm. There those that desire to will cross to Esquimalt harbor and the rest will return by the Arm and the Gorge again. A large turn-out of ladies and gentlemen is looked for.

Jealous American Musicians.

Detroit, Mich., May 9.—The eighth annual meeting of the National League of Musicians, which met in this city this morning, is attracting more than usual interest in professional musical circles on account of the action which will probably be taken regarding the importation of foreign talent. The attitude of the organization on this subject has not heretofore been very strictly defined, and some internal dissension has been caused by the opposition of certain elements to such foreign organizations as the German Imperial band and other bodies of musicians who visit the country more for social than commercial purposes. The effort to bring these latter within the restrictions of the alien contract labor law has aroused much indignation both within and without musical circles, and it is probable that the future policy of the union in regard to this subject will be outlined at the present meeting.

Empress Carlotta's Necklace.

Chicago, May 9.—In an office on the tenth floor of a La Salle street sky-scraper there occurred this morning an incident that may be regarded as something of a link between the past and the present of a family of the unfortunate Emperor Maximilian of Mexico. It was the setting apart of a magnificent diamond necklace that once encircled the fair throat of the ex-Empress Carlotta, which she invariably wore on state occasions, and which was her especial pride. The unsetting was performed by J. H. Norton, a diamond expert, in whose possession it has been for some time, and was witnessed by a number of connoisseurs in precious stones. The necklace proper is, or was, composed of 28 stones, the surface of each one being nearly as large as a dime. Attached to it so as to remain stationary on either side of the neck were two stars, each of ten large stones, with a large solitaire as a centre piece. A week or two hence several of the leading society women of Chicago will be displaying on a finger one of the stones that once added charm to the appearance of the unfortunate beauty whose royal life is now slowly ebbing away in a French madhouse.

LADY ABERDEEN.

Lady Aberdeen's address at the dedication of the Woman's Building of the World's Fair was an eloquent one. She spoke as follows:—

"It is a great honor to be allowed to take part in the opening ceremonies of an enterprise toward which the eyes of all who take an interest in the work of women and the position of women throughout the world are turned with hopes and confidence. Mrs. Palmer has told us of what she and her colleagues desire to attain through this great undertaking. The objects which she has put before us are calculated to arouse our utmost enthusiasm. I am sure that the women of the other countries represented here will never forget the deep debt of gratitude under which she and her fellow-workers have placed us, and we can assure her that she will ever receive the most loyal support that we can render, in our measure, throughout the course of this exposition. I take it that the one supreme subject of friendly rivalry and emulation existing between us here will be to show how much the women of each country have served that country, and have thus raised it high in the civilization of the world, by their devotion, their skill, their talents, their influence for good; and taking this as the standard by which we are to test ourselves, I am proud to think that I am here as the representative of the two countries of which I can claim a share of nationality, Scotland and Ireland. Women have counted for much in the history of both these countries, and I think we can show by our exhibits that our peasant women do much for our national industrial reputation in both instances. We hope to show in the Irish village on the grounds, which President Cleveland has honored with a visit, the work of Irish peasants in the process of being made, and here in these buildings we show specimens of their finished work, thus bringing home to the minds of the visitors that all these beautiful hand-made laces which adorn the garments and the palaces of the wealthy are manufactured in Irish cabins, as well as the ordinary linen and woollens which are needed. We expect much good to come from this splendid opportunity of exhibiting our goods, which you in the New World have afforded us, and we know you will rejoice in the thought of whatever prosperity you may thus bring into the lowly homes and lives full of the pathos of poverty, for to them just a little sunshine will mean perfect happiness amid the ills and cares which they have so well. But our expectations by no means rest here. We are looking with eager expectation to the results which will flow out to all nations of the world from the arrangements you are making for the meeting of the representative women of all countries. It is much when the women of one country will thus meet one another face to face and learn to know one another and realise what is being done to help forward the common cause of humanity. But when now we see before us the women workers and thinkers of the world, coming together from all climes to prove their sisterhood and to find new and rich sources of common strength, from which they gather inspirations wherewith they may render higher and holier and more faithful service to their own homes and to the world than have yet been dreamt of, how can we but linger on the threshold in expectant awe of what we feel may yet prove the discovery of a new world, more potent in possibilities for the race than even that wonderful new world whose discovery we celebrate to-day? Will not this indeed be so if the women of the world, stimulated by what they will here see of what has been accomplished by their sex under imperfect conditions, and perceiving the grandeur of their vocation and the splendor of their opportunities, go forward united in spirit and fired with a common devotion and faith to serve their day and generation with a service with which past ages have never yet been blessed."

The Smoking Habit Among Clergymen.

A good story related by an English bishop is going the rounds of the English papers. He says that at one time he entertained to dinner a party of American bishops. Before retiring to rest he visited their bedrooms, and found all the bishops in the same attitude—kneeling on the hearthrug and smoking up the chimney. Apropos of this tale, an Edinburgh journal declares that any one visiting the smoke-room of the assemblies of the Scotch churches would be surprised to find how many ministers smoke. Dr. Norman McLeod, who is fond of his cigarette, has been heard to observe that if smoking were allowed in the assembly there would be much less talking and business would be greatly facilitated.

VALUABLE ESTATE

For Sale or Exchange for City Property.

In consequence of sickness the owner has decided to sell the ranch known as Stroebel's Addition to the cities of Huntingdon and Sumas, an investment seldom offered; location good. One hundred acres of good bottom and prairie land, well ditched and improved; Farm House, Outbuildings, etc. This property is sure to become in the near future valuable town property, independent of being good farming land. It is at present a railway centre. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company purchased a piece of the above described quarter section for their station; and also for the proposed Chilliwack Railway coming in on this property, which will add one more to the many railways already there. The adjoining property constitutes the cities of Huntingdon and Sumas, where there is a population of 1000 people. The B.B. and B.C. Railway Company and the Northern Pacific Railway Company's stations are some two hundred yards from the land now offered for sale. The B.I. and F.V. Railway Company's station will be erected a few yards from this property, if not on it. Fifty acres ready for the plough. Part of it already in crop. The above is a good opening for anyone wishing to commence in the milk or dairy business. The buyer would have the privilege of running a large number of cattle over six thousand acres of unfenced prairie land adjoining the above place. This land is well adapted for hop raising, and will grow hay at the rate of four tons to the acre, which can be shipped into Vancouver by the B.I. and F.V. Railway or the Canadian Pacific at a moderate rate. The above place will be sold cheap. Possession can be given at any time. Terms will be made liberal and made to suit the purchaser. A large percentage of the purchase consideration will be allowed to remain on mortgage security at current rate of interest. Further particulars on application to undersigned. Apply to

NAKUSP & SLOCAN MINES

The Eldorado of British Columbia

All the ore output now assured to Nakusp by the immediate construction of the NAKUSP & SLOCAN RAILWAY, which will start at Nakusp and end at the Forks of Carpenter Creek, directly in the centre of the Slocan Mines.

No Other Route can Possibly Compete

Thirty-five miles of Railway from Nakusp will tap the whole of the Mines of the Slocan District, and the ores are bound to come out BY THE NATURAL GATEWAY, VIA NAKUSP, to the general welfare and prosperity of the Province.

Look at the Map.

A Provincial Railway Charter and subsidy and a Dominion Railway Charter have been obtained for the Nakusp & Slocan Railway, and the Canadian Pacific Co. have entered into an agreement to lease and operate the Railway for 25 years. There can be no doubt as to the importance of NAKUSP, the Gateway of the Slocan Country, either from the North or South, and the principal shipping and distributing point for all the district tributary to Slocan Lake.

Concentrators and Samplers

Now in contemplation, consequent on the definite settlement of the Railway question. The Nakusp & Slocan Railway will be built with a rush right into the heart of the Mines. See Wardner's and other experts' estimates of the production of Slocan Mines in the press. All this now assured is directly tributary to the Nakusp & Slocan Railway.

LOTS WILL BE PUT ON THE MARKET ON APRIL 20th AT OLD PRICES, BUT WILL BE ADVANCED 20 PER CENT ON MAY 1st.
